None of the other workmen could direct the engine to be stopped. Mullin alone had that power. His direction in reference thereto, or failure to direct, was an act of superintendence. At least, the jury was authorized to so And. -- Guilmartin v. Solcay Process Co., 189 N. Y. Rep. 480. 2. In a somewhat similar case the Court of Appeals set aside a verdict which had been affirmed by the First Appellate Department. An employee was caught in some shafting and killed. It appeared that, under...
